

The Federal Communications Commission

Dear The Federal Communications Commission,

I do not want to pay more for my telephone service! I urge you to reject a flat fee proposal that would change how contributions are made to the Universal Service Fund. I am concerned that this proposal could make my current service unaffordable.

Under the flat fee proposal you are considering, people who make few long distance calls would pay the same as people or businesses that make many calls. In other words, low-volume and primarily residential customers would bear the same universal service fund burden as a high-volume residential or business customers. This is unfair!

I use my wireless phone for safety, security and convenience. I don't want to lose these benefits so that big businesses can pay less than their fair share. I urge you to reject the proposal to move the USF collection system to a flat-fee. The big business's have more money and can afford these increased rates. We, as in the people you are raising the costs for are poor or do not have enough money to keep up with these extra costs. Just because the big business's dont want to pay these charges doesnt mean that they can not afford it, because they can. They make billions if not more money and they can take on the extra fees. There is no need to charge the people who can barely pay bills these extra charges when clearly big business's can afford the charges.

Keep the USF Fair!

Sincerely,
